

Video 1: Why I Left Social Media (Transcript)

by Wes Penre and Ariel Glad, May 10, 2018

My name is Wes Penre, and for those who are unfamiliar with me, I am, among other things, the owner of wespenre.com and two e-books that can be found on the website. I am going to make a separate video, where I am presenting myself and my new partner in more details for those who are unfamiliar with who I am. The two of us will be working together on this video series.

In this first video, I am taking the opportunity to address a subject that might have puzzled some of my readers--why did I leave social media not too long ago, and why I am now beginning to post a long series of videos on my YouTube channel?

To include a little background; in 2010, I started my research for the Wes Penre Papers, which can be found at wespenre.com. It was a massive research that took more than five years to complete, and the papers brought up a series of topics, although mainly concentrating on our situation as a human race, trapped here on Earth after having been manipulated by an extraterrestrial force from beyond our solar system. The papers also presented a solution to the problem we've been facing for many millennia. This ET force is still active and is keeping humankind under control on a continuous basis. It is recommended that you make yourself familiar with the Wes Penre Papers, in order to get a deeper understanding of this video series.

After I had completed the Wes Penre Papers—WPP for short—I reactivated a dormant forum that was linked to my website. The purpose with this forum was to discuss the WPP and topics that are closely, or more remotely related to them. This forum became a success, with more than nine-hundred members.

However, for a few different reasons, I recently felt inclined to entirely get off social media. Therefore, I closed down both my Facebook account and the forum. Those who have followed my research know that I am not a fan of social media because I know how controlled it is, and it is used to gather information about humankind as a mass consciousness--more so than to gather information about single individuals, although this happens, too. Another important function social media has is to make people in general more narcissistic—something we will discuss in depth in later videos. Most listeners are probably unfamiliar with what narcissism really is and why creating narcissists out of human beings is so important for the ET control force, whom I call the “Alien Invader Force” (AIF for short). It is, in our opinion, based on research and first-hand experiences, crucial for everybody to understand the relationship between narcissism and the AIF.

Another reason why I closed down the forum was because it became too difficult to administer. Things went out of hand because of trolling, which led to more or less unrepairable speculations about my whereabouts, motives, and about my persona in general. People also began to attack each other. All this is something that often happens on forums—particularly when they grow, and if the administrator (me in this case) can’t keep up with the task, things soon get out of hand. It can become devastating, and what might unfold has the potential of defeating the entire purpose with a forum like mine.

In addition to the above, I went through a very difficult separation and divorce, which made it virtually impossible to keep up with what happened on the forum, and I took time out. I eventually appointed a new administrator, and although he made a great job over the short period of time he held the position, it was too late—I had already let it go too far.

But perhaps most important of all, I felt that it was high time for me to move on. The WPP contain my own hypotheses and theories, based on extensive research, but it took all my time, and I felt that it is crucial to finally move on and start practicing what I have released to the public in the WPP and my e-books. In order to do so, I need to elude myself from the major distractions that take me away from my purpose. The following video series will be much about first-hand experiences, based upon previous research and far beyond that.

The reason we are now posting YouTube videos is because YouTube is possibly the best medium to get information out to the public. My partner and I have had many insights on a series of topics that we, in our opinion, find so important that we need to share them with those who are willing to listen and discern, and the information we are about to disclose includes that on narcissism and social media.

This YouTube channel, and my websites and blogs that are listed in the section below the videos, will be the only media produced by me, and in the event of this channel—me and my partner, unless I personally tell you otherwise. If I add some other kind of media in the future, I will post that in the News section of wespenre.com.

And keep in mind that albeit we, as a human race, have been in a jam for many thousands of years, trapped within our own minds, the Queen's Experiment is not over...
