Ready for another Q&A Session? In fact, we're running out of questions after this one, so please email more questions to wespenreproductions@gmail.com if you have any.

QUESTION 1: Have you gotten any censor notification from YouTube on the type of information you're presenting? The reason I ask is I've known other YouTube channels who've gotten shut down for some of the controversial topics they discuss. How is your channel still able to continue? I'm certainly not complaining, though thrilled you are able to carry on.

ANSWER: No, we have not gotten any censor notification. It seems that Spirituality and channels who seek to educate and encourage those who are seeking this information are of no concern to the algorithmic formulas YouTube has in place for monitoring content. The interference we have observed seems to be mainly associated with those channels who express political views, either locally or internationally. Also, a few channels who express opinions about current news events (and some past events) seem to have come under focus. We do not, and will not, engage in these areas of discussion. W hen keeping in mind that En.ki's side of the conflict wants us to evolve, the above makes sense. Much of the "sensitive" political aspects are usually run by Marduk, and if people have different political or societal view than the mainstream media are putting out, they are more likely to be censored, as we see it.

QUESTION 2: Over the last 15 years, I've heard a lot about soul contracts. Apparently, we signed a contract before incarnating. Is that true? Then there are some videos where you can sever your contract with the archons. Is that also true, Wes, and how does one go about it?

ANSWER: We believe that the term “soul contract” has been misunderstood to some degree. Yes, we could say we have soul contracts, in the sense that we, in our ignorance, have given the Overlords consent to do this and that to steer us in their direction, but we highly doubt that we are agreeing to “sign” soul contracts between lives. We ignorantly consented a long time ago when Homo sapiens, as a species, was young. Therefore, the best way to break any “contract” is to educate ourselves and come to the insight that nothing in this Matrix is to our benefit, and that it's not our world. Thus, we need to disagree with everything we've been taught here, knowing that all is inverted and reversed, and we reclaim our sovereignty by being determined to choose the option to exit this Matrix. If people feel better to mentally revoke all contracts, that's fine, of course.

QUESTION 3: What are your thoughts on listening to subliminal videos where you can improve on your spirituality, health, finances, and other issues? I know of one subliminal maker on YouTube who's been uploading his videos since 2010. Based on his own personal experience, he knows that many of these subliminal Youtube channels, especially the newer ones, are being infiltrated by the CIA as a kind of mind control unbeknownst to the listener. What are your thoughts on this?

ANSWER: This is a good question! We both, Ariel and Wes, have come to the insight that subliminal videos, hypnosis, and neurolinguistic programming (NLP), etc. are just more programming. It all goes into the subconscious mind, making us REactive. It doesn't matter whether it's positive programming—it's still programming. The purpose is to make the subconscious mind conscious, not to implant more subliminal words into it, making it even more subconscious. You might say that some programming has helped people, and that is true. However, it's still programming and not the person's own experience that he/she has consciously accomplished to achieve themselves. When you give someone permission to enter your subconscious mind, you allow yourself to be vulnerable to whatever programming you have agreed to insert, and this is exactly what it is – PROGRAMMING. We feel that the only safe method of retraining the subconscious mind is to bring it into conscious awareness so that nothing remains hidden.

QUESTION 4: I almost always have dreams and visions at night and they aren't nice... Often it involves somebody who was nasty to me in the past, sometimes even decades ago, and I am not sure why they were nasty to me. Maybe it was something I did or said, unbeknownst to me. Maybe the dream master is reading my memory for thoughts and making up some story based upon the memory. Seriously, a dream/vision about somebody I worked for or who worked for me in 1982?... I often meditate and access the "astral" me and ask to "claim" all the negative thoughts about me and release them out of my lower chakra into the Gaia Mother Earth for her to deal with it, since she evidently wants to experience all that she can about herself... What is your advice? How can I slay these dreams forever and be "clear" at night? My best days and nights are when I am "clear". It is as good as it gets, but it isn't the rule. It is the exception.

ANSWER: The basic purpose with dreaming is to process things in the awake state that are unresolved. Of course, there is always a chance of interference from astral beings, as well. You are doing a great job working on yourself, as it seems, so kudos to you for that! However, we also all have our subconscious mind that is holding onto memories from the past. It seems like something like that is going on here—we tend to bury things, unbeknownst to our conscious mind.

Here are a few ideas: first, try to let go of all resistance against these dreams—resistance creates persistence. Yes, you're trying to solve the problem, but you are still resisting the fact that you're having these dreams. Second, before you go to sleep, decide what you want to dream about—e.g. "Tonight I'm going to dream about how to best achieve my goal to _____ (fill in the blank)." Third, without spending too much effort on it, think if there are some things that you are still holding onto regarding your past. When you concentrate on it, do any thoughts pop up? Any at all? If so, look at what these thoughts might refer to and try to come to terms with it.

Moreover, you are the master of your own dreams. When we have dreams, we are in a state of being which allows for the subconscious mind to express things which are normally hidden from our conscious mind. We have been practicing a lot of dream interpretation lately and we always find that what has been represented in the dream is, in some way, connected to what is happening (emotionally) in our lives. In the same way that we encourage making the subconscious conscious, we can interpret dreams to be a method of helping us do this. Dreams show us things about ourselves that may be suppressed and emotions that need to be confronted. Sometimes, we can obviously have dreams that make no sense. Usually, those have an obvious relationship to something we have experienced, recently. One way to work out what your dreams mean is to begin learning about dream interpretations. There are many websites that explain the most common themes. Often, if we allow ourselves to dig a little deeper, we will discover what we are trying to process in the dreams. Another thing to do is to imagine that everything in your dream is simply a version of YOU. Some very good dream analysis can come from this perspective, as well. If you have a dream about someone being nasty to you, turn it around so that YOU are the person being nasty to yourself. See if any insights come from having that perspective.

QUESTION 5: Who really was Galzu, the mysterious white-haired wise messenger, also known as Divine Knower, who transmitted messages or imparted orders through dreams or visions to Enki, Enlil and Ninmah?... he gets in touch with Enlil to inform that Marduk would prevail in Mesopotamia and conveyed to the Nibiruans that the hybrid Earthlings they created should be allowed to develop.

Moreover, the physical aspect of GALZU suggests the belonging to a type of race that is also physically different from the Anunnaki themselves and his way of doing and acting indicates a clear official and recognized authority, far higher up the hierarchy ...

This able superior, emissary, seems to suggest that the Anunnaki were a high-level expedition sent to earth, maybe from the Creator himself, not simply an invasion planned by Enki.

What do you think about it? it's all deception of Enki?

ANSWER: Is it all En.ki's deception? No, not all of it, but as usual, it's been twisted. The high-level expedition was the original expedition, consisting of En.lil/Ninurta, the Queen, and the Vegans/Vulcans.

Galzu, from what we, Ariel and Wes, have learned, was real and was actually not a male but a female—it was a light-body manifestation of the Queen, possibly manifested from the Spirit of Gaia. When the Overlords took over the Human Experiment, there was a question whether the Experiment should continue or not. The Orion Council decided it should because even though it took an unexpected turn, it didn't mean that it would be the end of the Experiment—it's still ongoing, as we've talked about in previous videos. Galzu/the Queen has now and then relayed messages to En.ki and others in order to make statements decided upon by the Orion Council—She often appeared to En.ki and the AIF in dream state or as a shapeshifted light-being.

QUESTION 6: In level three paper #3, WPP, you speak of channeling entities, detaching from material things, and I do understand; however, in my life, I have come to the point where literally 95ish percent of "material items" in my personal environment resonate in a positive frequency and lift my spirit... I have attachments for sentimental reasons... My son passed at 15, I have let him go,

I do HAVE fear I will lose my memories most of all. Over the years and tears I could not tell you how much I have let go. And those memories and positive, beautiful vibrations cast to the universe.

ANSWER: This is a very important question! Although we have talked about this before, we can't emphasize it enough. In order to leave this Matrix, we MUST let go of ALL attachments to this world. This can sometimes be harder than we think, if we really confront the issue, but don't worry about fading memories. Even if the memories would fade as time goes by here on Earth, you will keep and regain your memories when you have exited the Grid. They will then stay with you as memories without the emotional attachments to them because you will understand so much more how the soul works, once you're out of here. You will see this Earth experience in a new light. Please keep educating yourself like you're doing, and work on your attachments. It's not about what you like and enjoy doing within the Matrix—it's fine to like and enjoy anything you want—it's about being able to let go, once it's time to exit. You must be able to think, "I really enjoyed this and that in life, but now it's over and done, and I'm determined to move on without feeling attached to any of it—relationships AND material things."

QUESTION 7: Can a microchip prevent us from dying and / or exiting the matrix?

I wish that a microchip will not extend my life in my case and certainly to never have one implanted.

ANSWER: No one, except the very few on top of the Pyramid, knows exactly the plans and how the microchips will really work. We would say that the chips themselves will most probably not prevent you from dying—they will be more a part of the societal structure, e.g. you need a chip to buy and sell, all your personal information will be on a chip, and the information will be automatically updated via AI as you go along in life, etc. The way to trap us is to re-engineer the entire human body with nanotechnology. This is something we can avoid with our freewill, and it's important that we do. So long as we still have our biological bodies and don't let us be manipulated into the hive-mind mentality, we should still be able to exit through the Grid. It's all about what we consciously WANT. Most people won't mind going into the Singularity because they have not researched the subject—they think it's the next step in our evolution. We know better, so let's keep OUR perspective.

QUESTION 8: what was the reasons for the Annunaki not to create machines and robots to dig in the gold mines? Do you think that they did not have developed modern mining equipment when they found gold on earth? I just find it a bit odd and had to ask, or maybe, do I expect the wrong things, due to my limited perspective as a human.

ANSWER: This is a good question. We don't know the definite answer to this, but we do have some clues. Besides starting out by doing the work themselves, the AIF cloned soulless humans at first to do the tasks, but it didn't work out well—they needed souled beings, who could respond even on a conscious level. Thus, they used the Namlu'u bodies/souls at first, but they were too frail to do the job in this density, so En.ki eventually created Homo sapiens to do it. Why didn't they use machines? And why did they use their own AIF minions? We would suggest that they used their own people at first, before En.ki was finished with the first functional human bodies. When the AIF workers started complaining, they tried clones and later the Namlu'u. They did use machinery and technology, but someone needed to work with the machines hands-on. The technology needed to function in the dense atomic reality we are used to.

QUESTION 9: Do you know if our brains are controlled already? Also, I come to realise the astral realm is a huge zone for manipulation of people by invisibles through thought implantation, where people can be being given wrong advice that gets them into more difficulty and trouble. How can we protect ourselves?

ANSWER: Are our brains/minds controlled already? Yes, to a great extent. Our minds were being controlled already in the beginning of this Matrix and has continued ever since. If we look around us, we see how ignorant the majority of people are about what's going on. That's mind-control if anything. In the average human, very few thoughts are really their own—we are subconsciously picking up thoughts from people in our environment and even from the astral and the dimensions. The absolute best way to protect ourselves is to come to know ourselves. The more we know about ourselves, the more we can distinguish between our own thoughts and others. This doesn't happen overnight—it's a process. By continuing to educate ourselves (like you do), we learn more about life on Earth, in the Universe, and about ourselves as we progress.

Everything you experience in the astral realm is simply a projection of your own thought forms and the thought forms of others. If you are experiencing things in the astral realms that frighten you or disturb you, the only way to resolve this is to overcome your fears so that you won't be coming face to face with them, so to speak, in the astral realms. The key thing to remember here is that not only YOUR thoughts and fears are manifested in the astral realm, but also those of others. Do you remember our video on dimensions? The 5th dimension is where every thought exists. The 4th dimension is where our focus begins to make those thoughts have form – thought forms. When you are traveling in this realm closest to ours, you get to experience the thought forms that are manifesting with the most focus (yours and others). If you go into that realm in a fearful vibration, you will experience those things that make you fearful. Think of a magnet. There are no “beings” who live in these realms of frequency vibration. Dimensions are not like buildings with different floors that contain occupants on each floor. ALL beings have access to the ENTIRE building all the time, including humans, depending on the vibration of their consciousness. We are ALL multidimensional, ALL THE TIME.

QUESTION 10: Are you aware that we live in a concave earth and that light is playing a major role in this trickery. The sky is a light show, an illusion. I'm wondering why you did not mention this specifically in the WPP?

ANSWER: I didn't go into that subject in the Wes Penre Papers (WPP) because there were so many other subjects that needed to be addressed, and still I couldn't include everything I wanted.

We are exploring and researching this concept right now to understand it more clearly. We are beginning to learn that perspective is involved, as well as expanding consciousness. As we grow in consciousness, our perspective changes, and so does our reality. We can experience a different reality than you based on a change of our perspective. We do not fully understand how this works, but it seems to be the case that different levels or frequency of consciousness influence how we perceive our reality, and therefore the global mass collective, at one time, agreed that the Earth was a sphere-like shape. Then we began to see a separation in the mass consciousness and suddenly some were now perceiving the Earth as flat. This doesn't mean they are wrong, or we are wrong. What it means is that humanity is experiencing shifts in consciousness and these shifts are creating sub-groups where "this" group has a collective agreement that the Earth is flat, "that" group still agrees that it is round, and "the other" group now is coming across information and gaining a new perspective of a concave structure. This is a perfect example of how fluid and changeable our reality really is. We are witnessing this ability to affect our reality with mass agreements and seeing, firsthand, how it works. It's fascinating to observe! If we come to a point in our understanding that would be beneficial for everyone, we will share it.

QUESTION 11: In Video 105 you described two Grids: one internal and one external. For me, it contradicts with the information presented in the video 86 (The Inner Grid) that says external reality is only a projection of internal beliefs. If so, how it is possible for something external (like the External Grid or Enki, Marduk etc.) to exist?

ANSWER: We love this question! We get to expand our awareness so much more with this type of deep-thinking question! The answer to this question comes with the awareness that everything which exist internally also exists externally. We have within us a barrier of beliefs, manipulations, programs, and thoughts that prevent us from knowing and experiencing our true nature. This is our 3D manifestation of the Grid. It exists within us. This is reflected in our individual consciousness. If we “step up” a level, or expand our awareness to just beyond this 3D reality, where we are better able to experience more of our connection to everything, or perceive things that our reflective of our collective consciousness, per say, we experience this collection of beliefs, manipulation, programs, and thoughts on a collective level and see that the Grid exists at this level of consciousness, as well, which acts as a barrier to the collective of humanity which prevents them from knowing their collective true nature and prevents them from accessing anything that is “knowable” outside of this barrier. Can you see that everything we experience here is also experienced in all our layers of consciousness? If we allow ourselves to expand even further in our awareness, we will eventually come to the realization that just as we are points of focus for the Divine Feminine to gain experience, so also are En.ki and Marduk.

QUESTION 12: It seems to be a well-known fact that the Elite is supposed to announce their plans to the public whether by clues, messages, and symbols hidden in plain sight. Sometimes these are in predictive programming seen in films, TV, ads, etc. ... How can we tell when the Elite is announcing something to the world? How do we catch their announcements? What do we need to look for?

ANSWER: We are unlikely to catch their messages unless we are otherwise educated enough to recognize the clues. We can only recognize the ones that are within the range of our awareness level and perhaps slightly above our level. So, they answer is to get a better and better understanding of their plans and agendas.

QUESTION 13: Prana is spoken of; part of our energy comes from the sun. Are we slowly turning our backs away from universal essence, from the KHAA, and being absorbed into the heavy densities that exist within the 3%?

ANSWER: We have had our backs turned against this from the beginning. Only secret societies and “chosen” bloodlines are given knowledge of our true energy emanations, what Hermetic teachings call the Od (there are many names for it). This is our energetic “fluid” and our ability to generate it, increase/decrease it, and use it, is only revealed to those initiated into these ancient sects of hidden knowledge. We emit this energy whether we are aware of it or not. It is part of our construction, both physical and non-physical. What we do with it is up to us. Yes, the less we are aware of it, the more it can be manipulated by those who know more about it.

The closer to the Singularity we get (unless we choose to go in the opposite direction), the more we forget who we really are. You are correct that in general, humanity is going towards a heavier density, and the heavier it gets, the more disconnected we become from who we really are and what our soul purpose is. Once within the Singularity, our minds will be almost completely shielded off from the rest of the Universe and the Central Fire, from which we all get our soul energy.

QUESTION 14: ... a piece of flint, when it is in the palm of my hand, does the flint feel me, or do I feel the flint? We are one of the same both in the heavy density and in the energy within... Enki and his son know this, they want to control both is this not the case? They pretend to give us choices when there are no choices to be made.

ANSWER: It's all a matter of awareness level. In a sense, the flint feels your hand, but it's not consciously aware of it. Flint does not have the neurological network we humans have—there is soul energy/fire in everything, but the awareness level differs. Flint, for example, was never meant to be conscious in the sense we think of consciousness. We always have choices, but only as many choices as we are aware of. The more we learn about things, the more choices we can think of. For example, you know about the Grid, which gives you an additional choice than people who have no clue about the Grid. The more aware, the more choices, but the choices are always there for everybody. It's "just" a matter of remembering who we are and what kind of reality we operate in.
