How do you imagine God? What does the creator look like to you? We, as humans, can't help visualizing concepts in our minds. When we are told the story of Santa Claus, we all can conjure up an image of this red-suited jolly man. Where does this image come from? Did we just create it out of the void of our minds? While, this is certainly possible, it would mean that different people would have different interpretations of the concept and therefore imagine a different image. No, for most of the things we visualize in our minds, we have been given or TOLD who or what that concept is with more or less detail depending on how clearly the one telling the story wants us to visualize the idea being given. By doing this, most of us hold the same visual concept of an idea. Also, by holding a very strong visual of a concept we strengthen the thought of it. It is no longer an abstract concept, but rather a definitive and clear concept to which we give FORM.

Throughout humankind's history, the concept of God has been given to humans by those who needed or wanted humanity to have this concept. Ancient humans, having no concept of what a god is, were told about this concept, initially, then told who their God really is... by God. It doesn't seem to be an unbiased share of information, does it? In order for God to be worshiped, loved, or feared, humanity needed to have a concept of God. Who gave them the concept? God(s).

For humans to understand the concept of something they couldn't imagine, like a God, very detailed and clear descriptions, commandments, and expectations were given to humans in order for humans to conceive the correct idea. The more people who believe and thus begin to form the thought of this God in their individual and collective mind the stronger and more unified the thoughtform will become.

For humans to understand concepts that were unfamiliar to them, the stories needed to be told in such a way that humans could relate. The mental picture and concepts needed to have something as a foundation from which to form. What did humans understand at the time? Family and relationships. So, the concept of God was given to humans as a "FATHER" because this was easy for them to relate. Father, Mother, and Son are concepts that a group of humans with amnesia would understand. God became personified. As we move forward, it might help to expand our perspective if we can let go of some of the concepts we have been given, to see a bigger picture. If we can do that, we might be able to start forming new concepts where God is not some personified white-bearded man or even a personified extra-terrestrial being.

There are many words for God. Some refer to this eternal essence/consciousness as Source or the All. Because the common label (God) for this essence has been corrupted by an imposter, we will choose to refer to this immortal and Divine essence as Source. In truth, It is the Source of all things, after all.

So, what is It? From what we have been researching and understanding, Source begins as a singular point of awareness or consciousness. A single-cell zygote is a good illustration of this concept. This single cell, after fertilization, doesn't stay that way very long. It soon begins to divide itself, first into two, and then the process continues into many, many cells which eventually form and develop into what we know as a physical body. Certain cells, once created by this division process, will go on to do their own functions and serve their own purposes. For example, certain cells will become the heart, the skin, the bones, the eyes, and so on. All of these aspects of what was once a single cell all combine to make a whole body. This translates well into a concept of understanding this wholeness or fullness that is called the Pleroma, or the dwelling place of Source.

Source, being the definition of wholeness, perfection, and fullness, begins to divide Itself into attributes or qualities that make up this wholeness or perfection, and It is UNKNOWABLE. What does that mean – unknowable? Some Biblical interpretations of the word “know” is to merge or be in communion with. This seems to indicate that once Source has created division, the resulting separation can never return to this Source. Contrary to this, this does not mean that we assume that any creation can not merge back with Source. We simply do not know if that is possible or not. We once held the perspective that this (merge) was impossible based on the UNKNOWABLE Source, but we will not be so arrogant to say that we know everything. We definitely do not know everything, and neither we nor anyone else can presume to understand something that is, by Itself, defined as UNKNOWABLE. This is for each one of us to contemplate for ourselves.

This single point of Source perfection is called the Monad. It represents all of the Divine in Its fullness. It is surrounded by a boundary just like we see in the zygote. This boundary, or what is known as the Horus, keeps the Pleroma (that which is complete) from that which is incomplete. The incomplete didn't always exist, and therefore the boundary separating the two came later, which we will discuss as we move forward.

We can find these attributes or divisions of the Monad/Source in the Gnostic texts of the Apocryphal gospels. These “offspring” of Source are often referred to emanations. Emanations – meaning something that is issued or springs forth from a source. How do we simplify this concept to people who have no ability to imagine or understand this concept? We tell it in the form of a story in which God had “children” – offspring – but this is not the literal translation as we know it of son or daughter. Keep this in mind as we move forward. These emanations have very often been PERSONIFIED to make the concept easier to understand.

These emanations are known as the Aeons and there are thirty of them, each emanation being made as one half of a pair. Fifteen pairs in total. No emanation shall be alone or without collaboration because the first division was the creation of TWO, and this is the Divine design of the expansion of Source. You cannot divide one into only one part. It must become two. Division exists, but separation does not. Division is adding to the whole, separation would create isolation and solitude. Source existed in solitude in the beginning of Its awareness and creation expands outward as growth, not contraction back into Itself. Each pair was formed as an emanation of the Source according to the qualities that make up the wholeness or fullness of Source. There are several interpretations of the Aeons, but for simplicity's sake we will use the most common interpretations for our project.

These emanations, in cooperation as pairs, are the builders of creation. They are the workers, who by following the original design of Source, set out to build and create worlds according to the unique attributes of each pair, or combined pairs working in collaboration. We have NO IDEA of what exists in this original HyperUniverse. We don't even have a name for it. It is so far removed from our memory or experience that we do not have an adequate concept of its design or function. We strongly suspect, however, that this is where we belong. If this is where we came from, then how did we get to where we are now?

The LAST emanation coming from Source as it divided into these generations of Aeons was one called Wisdom/Sophia. This is where our story began. This Aeon (who is not a person or alien creature, but rather an emanation from Source – an aspect of the Whole) was created as one of a pair. Because we are often designating these pairs as masculine/feminine, Sophia is often referred to as the female aspect of this pairing while Her counterpart or “consort” is Will or Intention/Theletos. In some interpretations, Wisdom is referred to as being male. It is hard to describe this account of our beginning without personifying things into male and female beings, so for now, we will refer to Sophia as “She” and “Her”, since this fits with our understanding and simplifies the concepts.

By each combining their own attributes, creations or emanations should have come forth from this pair in balance and harmony and COMPLETION within the Pleroma and design for creation. However, something happened that was not in alignment with the way this process should have been done.

Remember that Source is UNKNOWABLE. Sophia (being Wisdom) desired to acquire knowledge of Her origins and KNOW Source. This Aeon wanted to KNOW what was above Her, what was more splendid and what was more excellent than Wisdom? Sophia wanted to know. This desire, and the concept or thought accompanying it, caused Sophia to issue forth Her OWN emanation in an individual act of creation without Her balancing counterpart. She had accidentally created a projection or an offspring that was an expression of these thoughts and desires. Instead of this emanation going to Source, as She might have intended, because Source is UNKNOWABLE to Her, this emanation was cast out of Her in the opposite direction.

By creating through an act of solitude rather than wholeness and balance, She had created deficiency where it never existed before. Where there was once only fullness, there now existed a VOID. This was the creation of the Demiurge – demi, meaning “half” and urge, meaning “strong desire”.

Sophia, by acting separately and without the consent of Her consort, gave birth to an empty creation.

Sound familiar? If you are familiar with the Wes Penre Papers, then you are aware that the Queen of Orion’s firstborn son was born from an unfertilized egg. The VOID could be considered the unfertilized egg. Her emanation issued from her as if it was an unfertilized egg. It was unfertilized, and therefore EMPTY and devoid of Spirit.

The VOID/unfertilized egg is still an act of creation and therefore able to create within itself. However, it is an ANTI-creation. It is an antipode or an opposite creation. This was the creation of polarity or duality and THIS is the fabric out of which our known Universe and reality is constructed. Before this, there had only been cooperation, balance, harmony, and collaboration. This ANTI-creation area of the Pleroma was soon encapsulated and kept apart from the rest of creation. Because this emanation from Sophia was cut off from the Pleroma, part of Her remains within the VOID. SHE is deficient and incomplete, as a result. Her Light has diminished. This lesser Light from Her went into the VOID and began to swirl around the chaos that had been created. Where there was once harmony, there was now the existence of its anti-harmony – chaos.

Her own desire and concept of knowing Source (God) because She could not perceive anything above Herself manifested within this VOID as an emanation or an aspect of Her – Her offspring. This emanation or offspring held all of the qualities that created it, since it was a direct expression of its creator, Sophia. However, the qualities or the attributes that projected from Sophia by the accidental emanation from Her being were not qualities that benefit the fullness of creation. What was created was an abomination – a being that formed with all the attributes and aspects that had created it.

In Her shame, and not wanting the rest of the Pleroma to be aware of what She had done, She tried to hide it by doing what the Pleroma had done for the VOID – She encapsulated it and cast it away from Her. Because Her offspring did not know His “mother”, He thought He was the only one that existed. He thought no one was above Him. He thought HIS LIGHT was the only light that existed in the darkness of the VOID. He thought He was The Creator, and so he set about to create in His own little corner of the VOID where he had been placed. He began to create (copy) what was in his “mind” which was the design of the Pleroma, complete with His own hierarchy. He mistakenly believed that this was an original concept of his own. What he was creating, instead, was a copy of what Sophia knew from HER origins that had been ejected into him/Her emanation. “She taught him everything he knew.” – WPP, referring to the Queen of Orion and her son.

He can only know as much as She knows because he is an individuated aspect of Her. He is a manifestation of Her emanation that is now operating independently from Her, as if He was an entity unto himself. He is not.

Lucifer believed He is the ONLY source of Light within the Universe. He is an artificial light, however, being created in deficiency. Because deficiency is not an original aspect of Source, it does not contain eternal Spirit (or essence of Source) and is constantly decaying. Matter was manifested as a result of creation which now includes death. Death has now become an aspect of creation within this matrix, where outside of this matrix there is no death. Matter = mater = matrix. How does life continue with no source of eternal light or Spirit to sustain it? It must be brought in from outside. Who would ever agree to come inside a matrix that is in a constant state of conflict/polarity, death, and separation? We would, unfortunately.

This describes the fall of Sophia as well as the fall of Lucifer. What we have here is a replay or a copy of events that keep manifesting over and over as different aspects are emanated time and time again in a repeat of the original events.

From what we have determined, Sophia is NOT Lucifer. Lucifer's "fall" is just a copy of Sophia's fall, albeit one step removed.

Everything, and we mean EVERYTHING here, is simply a copy of an original design that keeps being remade time and again for the purpose of keeping certain forces and this matrix "alive". We can understand that Lucifer is Sophia's "son", but this is not an entirely accurate description, as we have now explained. He is an "aspect" of her, and emanation, an expression of something that was within her that was projected outwards.

So, too, when we think of Lucifer (En.ki) having a "son" as Marduk. Marduk is an expression of En.ki in the same way that En.ki was an expression of his "mother". Do you see how personified all this has become? It helps to understand the bigger picture and things become a lot clearer when we are able to separate these forces or sources of consciousness, either original or artificially created, into their respective positions. When we do this, we get a much more expanded understanding of where we are and to where we need to return.

To the best of our knowledge at this point, we live in a matrix within a matrix that is cut off from our TRUE birthplace. Before you begin thinking that we have all been fooled by the Orion Empire into believing that the Orion Queen is our Creator, remember that an aspect of Sophia was trapped within this matrix of matter, and She is present as various forms within the larger matrix, the Queen of Orion being one of them. Our origins begin with the Aeon Sophia OUTSIDE of this matrix, and that means OUTSIDE of this Universe, which is formed from the Demiurgic fabric of the VOID.

We are left with more questions than answers. We understand that previous information or understanding of our situation seems to be incorrect in the light of this new information. Let us say that the path to escape the grid, the Orion Empire, and all that has been conveyed to this point is, to the best of our discernment, still correct and accurate. It just hasn't been the entire picture. There seems to be much more to our story.

Those who want to escape this immediate matrix and return to the Orion Empire are, of course, free to do so by the methods described in previous publications. However, we are grateful to those of you who kept asking questions, for those of you who were already expanding your perceptions to think beyond this polarity matrix of matter and asking, “What is beyond this?” We, too, began asking those questions, and we are confident, at this point, to say that we have another option.

For those of you who wish to continue studying and come to your own understanding of the Gnostic gospels, we encourage you to read the Nag Hammadi texts. We hope you will get as much insight as we have from these writings and, when added to what you already know about our matrix, put more of your own pieces to the puzzle together.
