

Video 162: Q&A Session #33

We've got a lot of questions lately, which we are very happy about! So, we decided to do another Q&A video. However, feel free to submit more questions at wespenreproductions@gmail.com. As usual, we have sometimes corrected the most important grammar errors in some questions, and at times, we've shortened them, but we always make sure that nothing is out of context. Here is the first question:

QUESTION 1: Do you have any logical explanation for the 11:11 phenomenon?

ANSWER: There are at least two reasons we know of why people see numbers like 11:11 and 4:44, etc. The most "logical" explanation is that people are waking up and start paying more attention to their environment. People who are not awake see them, too, but they don't pay attention to it. The other explanation is that in this Patrix, it's all about numbers and math. We are connected to everything else here, and when we see these numbers, it can be either a warning sign, or it could be a confirmation or some kind. When we see them, we try to recall what we were thinking about and doing just before we saw the numbers. Then we try to figure out what kind of meaning it could potentially have.

Signs like this are very personal and can mean different things for different people. So, when you notice them, take a moment to notice what happened just before, during, or directly after. Then, when you see them again, see if the same thoughts or actions are present. You might notice a pattern. If you do, you can use this for inner guidance.

QUESTION 2: There may come a day when we lose the capability to access the forum, your YT videos, or have access to you, Wes. Do you see this as a possibility? I don't want to lose contact with this group. We need this group and each other for strength and for information from you and your sources.

Video 162: Q&A Session #33

ANSWER: There is always a possibility because YT, particularly, is censoring people more and more, and other companies will follow. We just posted a video on Patreon called, “Censorship or Terms of Service?” For those who are interesting in more details about what’s going on with increased censorship and why can sign up on our Patreon page (see link in description box below). In that video, we’re narrowing it down to what it really is about. But back to your question: we will do our very best to stay online—there are other platforms that are independent that we can use. Right now, all our videos are backed up on Freedom.Social¹ (link in description box). It’s a non-censoring, independent platform. If worse comes to worse, we’ll go back to writing articles, or something similar. We will always work on adjustments, so our information will continue to be available. The best way to keep in contact is to form personal connections to people. One way to do that is to participate within the group and form friendships with those you trust. We have a few members on our forum who have become friends in real life, not just internet friends.

QUESTION 3: During some of your videos I get the impression that you are channeling (from a source you trust) and am not sure if this is true. So much of your information is deep and thought provoking and has always felt to me to be outer worldly. It is hard for me to imagine that your information has come from this earth consciousness. In some instances, you mentioned to a small degree (or at least I picked up on it or thought I did) that information is given to you (or passed on). Is there any truth to this? Does much of your information come from a trusted source that is allowing all of us to be more informed? How do you acquire such valuable and insightful information if not channeled?

ANSWER: I’m not channeling and never have—except my Highest Self/Spirit. But you’re correct—when I wrote the papers, I was in contact with particularly one source that is from outside this Patrix. We discussed a lot of the topics that you rightly consider “outer-worldly.” As you might have noticed, some of the information in the Wes Penre Papers (WPP) can’t be found anywhere else. The outer-worldly source is VERY trusted—I communicated with this source daily, so we became dear friend. There is no doubt in MY mind that this source is genuine and has humanity's best interest in mind. This star being is here on Earth. I can't reveal more than that. My source is not welcome here by En.ki and his co-conspirators.

QUESTION 4: In your more recent videos, you make Sophia sound like she is the First Creator, Source and decided to create the KHAA (not as an abomination or mistake) but intentionally make it for a grand purpose. And she is here willingly as the Queen, etc. Could you possibly clarify if you think Sophia is the Source of all creation, or an aspect of Source, as you once stated; and was the KHAA created as a mistake, an abomination, or was it created intentionally for a purpose?

ANSWER: As Source began to know or define all Her qualities, at one point She recognized that Wisdom is one of Her qualities. We can do the same. Ask yourself, "Who am I?" or "What am I?" Begin to define all your qualities. As these qualities become known, they become individual aspects of being. These individual aspects begin to create according to their qualities. For example, one aspect of you is also Wisdom. If you use your Wisdom to create in the Universe, that might be a totally different experience for you than creating from the aspect of you which is Happiness or Bliss. When Wisdom moves (creates) in the Universe, it will seek to create experiences which bring more Wisdom. Wisdom is knowledge gained through and applied by experience. It is most likely where the concept of Earth being a "school" comes from. Our experience is based on Wisdom because this is the branch or aspect of Source from which we originate. This experience came to be because (as we understand it), when trying to define Herself, Source desired to know Herself from an external perspective. Because Source is EVERYTHING, this created a distortion. How can something be outside of EVERYTHING? An area of creation was formed which gave Her that perspective and this distortion is the area of creation we exist within. She basically created what could be described as a "mirror" so She can perceive Herself externally. We live in the "mirror". An aspect of Her is also here in the mirror with us because this mirror is part of Her. She is present in different forms, one of those is the Queen. WE are also an aspect of Her. It might have been an "accident" or an unexpected creation, but for Source to experience Wisdom, wouldn't ALL possibilities be desired from which to gain that Wisdom, including "accidents"? We exist in an area of creation in which unexpected experiences are allowed to be created from which to gain more Wisdom. We do not consider this to be a mistake because we are gaining wisdom by being here, which is the intention.

About six months ago, we plowed through the Nag Hammadi texts, and there is a lot of interesting information in them. However, they are all Patrix-based and have a strong patriarchal slant. The first conclusions we made was that Sophia is obviously the Queen, and we tried to put the pieces together. However, at one point, we realized that the Nag Hammadi is basically making the Queen the scapegoat for the mess we're in, and that's a huge stretch. It's the Creation Story told by the Patriarchs—particularly by Thoth, who took the role of Jesus. We believe the Gnostics were sincere, but they were deceived. The KHAA was not created by mistake. We sorted this out to the best of our ability in Video 144, "The Creation of the VOID aka the KHAA." Sophia/the Queen IS the Source of all creation in the KHAA, but it didn't happen the way the Gnostics were told and experienced through Out of Body Experiences (OBEs). They never got outside the Patrix.

QUESTION 5: How can Enki and the AIF manipulate the Earth Construct if they cannot enter it? I've heard these entities cannot enter the 3D environment or that it's very limited for them. Do they operate from the Moon or Saturn instead?

ANSWER: They CAN enter the Earth Construct, but only if they take human bodies and download their soul energy into them, which they do on occasion, but they can't enter it in their original form. They exist in another density. It would be like if you play a video game on your computer. The game is a virtual reality and not of the same density as the 3-D you live in. You can't walk into the video game and walk around there, but you can manipulate the game from outside, in your living room. Yes, the Moon and Saturn are two of the realms they reside in, but not in our density.

QUESTION 6: ...What do you think of astrology? ... It almost feels like life has been "set in stone" and if I don't follow a specific path I will not find "fulfillment" ... what should we do with it? Accept it and move with it? Use our free will and change ourselves? Detach completely?

ANSWER: Astrology can be helpful to know which energies are present at different "times". Everything in this area of creation is energy. Some business owners, real estate tycoons, and leaders of nations have used astrology to know when the best or worst times are to conduct negotiations, sign contracts, invest, or avoid conflicts. This also works on an individual level, as well. For example, you may be more prone to having your communications misunderstood during certain configurations in your chart. Therefore, it might be best to wait with an important discussion until your chart is more suitable for it. Nothing is “set in stone”, so to speak. If you are aware of certain tendencies, we can make appropriate changes that will benefit us. It’s up to you to decide if this is something you want to invest more of your energy into learning. Some find it very helpful while others do not. There have been times when the astrological alignments have given us more clarity and insight into our own personal experiences. In those instances, we have found the Vedic or Sidereal astrology to be more accurate than the Tropical astrology. As in all things, this is only a tool to use. Some people won’t make a single move without first consulting their chart. We feel moderation and intuition are just as important. Do what feels right for you.

QUESTION 7: You had mentioned that we have the option to bypass the KHAA and go straight to source. How? Do we then NOT go through the grid but somewhere else?

ANSWER: We need to go through the Grid—that’s the way out. We believe there might be a way to bypass the KHAA, but we have no proof of it. Like we discussed with a dear friend the other day; when we’ve exited through the Grid, we can make an intention, similar to this: “I want to go to what aligns with my absolute highest interest.” If you don’t want to go to the KHAA and want to bypass it, and it’s at all possible, the above intention might do it for you.

As we stated in an answer to an earlier question, this area of creation is designed as a mirror so that all we create may be reflected back to us with the intention to gain Wisdom. We hope to exit this aspect of “mirror” creation and have a different experience. First, we must leave this immediate Earth construct. That plan has not changed. Everything is Source, so no matter where we are, we are always within Source.

QUESTION 8: Could it be that it was the nukes and rockets fired into the Dome that created the holes in the grid for us to escape?

ANSWER: Yes, that’s part of it. There have been space wars in the solar system, fought in another density, and in the heat of combat, some of their weapons made holes in the Grid. But we humans are making holes in the Grid continuously as we are waking up because much of the Grid consists of our human soul energy.

QUESTION 9: ... How do you Wes, manage so much information from so many sources with so many different topics which inevitable gets conflicted by other information? ... There is also the subtle anxiety when trying to implement a new information, the "what if I'm wrong" doubt that can creep out on almost anything I discover. How do you manage such a variety of information where everybody can easily claim they are on the "right" path? ... How can you build a belief system and at the same time detach from seemingly "right" information and their sources without having the doubt that it all could be wrong and then start from zero again?

ANSWER: It comes with time. We could compare it to a college student, whose goal is to eventually get a PhD in mathematics; on college level, he has to work very hard to understand what he's supposed to learn, and it's often a struggle. Then, after having taken his PhD and starts working, math become easier and easier, and he doesn't need to study and doubt himself as much anymore because he has a stable education to lean back on. It takes time to learn how to use discernment and intuition on our spiritual path, and we need to be willing to accept that we're wrong sometimes. Eventually, from experience and by noticing that what we've learned actually explains a lot of what happens around us and beyond, we get a more and more solid ground to stand on. Eventually, we come to a point where one thing leads to another, and we don't need to research as much anymore. As the layers of the onion (the lies) are getting peeled, we get closer to the core (Spirit), and we get "connected." It's like playing Solitude with a deck of cards. In the beginning it's tough and we don't know how it's going to go, but at one point, we see we're on the right path—the cards fall into place and we know we're getting closer to beating the game.

QUESTION 10: How can you prove you're not also spreading transparent beliefs about overlords and such? Just because something was written in past doesn't mean it's true.

ANSWER: We can't. Things like this can not be proven except by personal experience. We have had enough personal experience and self-awareness to be able to validate these concepts. For those things we can't validate, we don't discard them, we just hold on to them as information and validation may come later as we experience more. Information is just information until it become personal experience. When that happens, it becomes knowledge. Since everyone's personal experiences are different, only you can determine what you feel to be true. Do not believe anything we tell you. We are only sharing our personal experiences and what we have learned. Do your own research, have your own experiences, and form your own foundation for truth.

We're not only going on ancient texts, although we've done that to quite some extent. Using syncretism is the key! When doing so, a bigger picture is emerging. It's not that the ancient texts are lies—they are just written from the Overlords' perspective. Once we see through that, it becomes easier to “decode” them. I have also had discussions with an anonymous source (see previous question in this Q&A).

QUESTION 11: When occultists/ good/bad witches warlocks, shamans, etc. use the 5 pointed star or surround themselves in a circle is this to keep any uninvited outside forces from taking over their beings or is this symbol used to send direct energy to outside entities to feed on. Is this a good or bad symbol. Or is it just another form of universal sacred symbols?

ANSWER: Humans have used symbols since the beginning, and these symbols have energies attached to them. In this Patrix, many of those symbols have been energized by the Overlords, and others have been energized by humans for different purposes. Occultists, whether they have good or bad intentions, are using them all the time. Circles, for example, are created to keep entities inside the circle, so they supposedly won't affect the magician. Symbols are not good or bad—it depends what we use them for, but we should be aware that most of them are charged, and if we don't know what we're doing, they can affect us in ways we hadn't expected. Many magicians use them to call up thought-forms that we humans have created in the astral. We, Ariel and Wes, would not use them, and we don't think they're necessary. We can all use intention instead, without using any tools, but for many people, tools of different kind can be helpful because we think they are. If we want to use symbols and sigils, we could make our own and charge them—it's up to each one of us. Symbols have charge and meaning, but the meaning is more often than not unknown to us humans. Therefore, when we see a symbol, it bypasses the conscious mind and go right into our subconscious (the artificial soul).

QUESTION 12: I have heard that the swastika is a symbol of protection and that the Germans used this to protect themselves from evil entities what do you think? Is their version of the swastika a protection symbol?

ANSWER: The swastika (pointed in the opposite way than the German symbol) is originally a Mother Goddess symbol. It's a symbol of Creation (a spinning galaxy), so it's the Queen's symbol to begin with. The Germans mirrored it and put their own energy into it. I haven't heard that it was a protection symbol, but it's not impossible.

QUESTION 13: I only recently stumbled on this research, speaking of the use of positive affirmations like " I AM CONFIDENT". This is said to work best by recording positive statements and then listening to them while asleep, it was believed that because the conscious mind is dormant during sleep, the affirmations could easily penetrate into the subconscious mind, which never goes dormant during sleep and which stores all information. What do you think about these techniques and do you have any experience concerning it?

ANSWER: Yes, affirmations can help change your frequency or state of being. As with anything else, it isn't a magic pill. It takes work and the willingness to make choices that are in alignment with that affirmation for it "take root". If you are using the affirmation of "I am confident", then when faced with your fears, don't expect confidence to magically show up. You may be given opportunities to CHOOSE TO ACT with confidence which will gradually begin to change how you feel about yourself. As a result, your confidence will grow until you are finally at a state of being where you ARE confident. It's a process that does work, if we are willing to work with it. Affirmations are just intentions we create for ourselves. In other words, they are meant to change the way we feel about ourselves. The best way to do that is to think and act in a way that contradicts the voice of the inner critic which says, "You are weak!" The only way to do that is to tell it to shut up and prove it (to yourself) that it is wrong.

Some words of caution! We would be very careful listening to recordings while asleep—it all gets stuck in the subconscious (synthetic soul). The synthetic soul does not distinguish between different meanings of the words or the situation in which the words or thoughts are then being used. I AM CONFIDENT is interpreted literally by the subconscious. So, when you think that you are confident, the synthetic soul interprets this BOTH ways, "I am confident in myself" and "I am confident that I will fail." Hope this makes sense. Instead, say your affirmations when you're conscious instead—it's much safer.
