Lately, in videos and on the forum, we have concentrated a lot on the non-physical aspect of us—the soul and her interaction with the so-called non-physical realms. We have done this for more than one reason, but one of the reasons is because our main objective here in this Construct is to figure out, “Who am I? What am I capable of? Where am I?” If we don’t grasp who we are, it’s difficult to move on.

In recent material, we have often referred to Robert Monroe and his book, “Far Journeys” and THE SETH MATERIAL by Jane Roberts. We are aware that these books describe the existence of non-physical beings (mostly humans), residing in what we call the astral. They are, in other words, part of the Construct/Patrix, just like we are. This might make people resistant to reading about it, thinking it’s just more of the same when it's not. There is a LOT to learn from these books, and therefore, we highly recommend that people read them.

What they teach us, among many other things, is how it is to be a non-physical being—a soul who can create something out of nothing with our thoughts, imagination, intentions, and emotions. Seth, in particular, tells us exactly how this procedure works. We can do the same thing, and we are doing it all the time, every second of the day. We manifest our thoughts, and we have thus created the 3-D reality we perceive ourselves living in. The problem is that almost nobody is aware that they are actually creating this reality with their own thoughts and beliefs. Like we said in our Q&A Video #37, “We could say that this Patrix is a very solid thought-form that we humans collectively keep recreating every nano-second, just like frames in a movie.” People are wondering when they can start being creator gods, while, in fact, all of us have always been creator gods, and we're always creating. In the non-physical realms, however—even within the Patrix—souls without physical bodies can create instantly. We, here on Earth, have created such a solid environment that thoughts become like glue and take a very long time to manifest.

In a sense, there is only you here, just like one of the “Hidden Hands” said in a “Godlike Productions” forum thread from 2005. In your own universe, which exists inside you, you are the only creator, and what you manifest in your life is based on what you create in your own universe. It's true that outside of your universe, there are other creators, such as what you perceive as your spouse, friends, and people in general, but they are creating their own realities. When we interact with each other's universes, we tend to be deeply affected by them and start projecting things from our own minds that will in turn affect both our own universes and that of others. All this put together is creating our collective universe. The problem is that we do this subconsciously and are therefore not in control of our own creations.

We have talked about wheels within wheels in recent videos. So far, we've mostly talked about them in a broader sense, but we all create wheels within wheels for ourselves by repeating patterns over and over. The task is to break these wheels and stop living in loops within loops. No wonder most people are completely out of touch with their Oversoul and Spirit. We are just reacting to our environment, instead of acting out of our own determinism, thoughts, and ideas. The more reactive we are, or become, the more wheels within wheels we create for ourselves. We need to realize that no one else can break these wheels for us—we created them ourselves in our own inner universe, so it's up to us to uncreate them.

We constantly adopt beliefs and belief systems by interacting with each other's universes, and these beliefs become so strong and solid in the mass consciousness that it is difficult to even see that we have them—and we have much more than we think we do. While still living in the Patrix, we can't break every single belief we have, but it's a very good idea to start peeling off the onion, and we'll explain why in a minute.

Remember that when we exit through the Grid, EVERYTHING in this Construct needs to go out the window in the process. This is why it's so important to be willing to get rid of all the attachments we have to this world—all of them! If we aren't, we will not be able to leave successfully.

We've said this before, but we want to say it again; this Construct is ultimately not existing in time and space, it exists within YOUR mind—you created the reality you are living in in this exact moment. No one else did. This is very important to understand. Therefore, it's not just that we're popping out of the Construct and a whole new reality is meeting us in time and space when we exit. Although there is an outer projection of such a thing as the KHAA, so souls can interact in the Universe, you can only experience what you're willing to experience.

Let's take a person, Jill, who is determined to go through the Grid after she dies, but she also has a lot of attachments to this Construct that she helped creating and which has become very solid in her mind. She hasn't studied very much and doesn't understand the difference between the KHAA and the Patrix, so she is just waiting until her life is over. Then, she sees the Grid above her and goes for it. She gets out on the other side, and what does she see?

Well, it all depends on how open-minded she is, and how much of the earthly 3-D reality with all her beliefs she brings with her. Theoretically, she can go through the Grid and take the entire Patrix with her, because after all, she is ultimately traveling with her mind. If her beliefs are strong that the Universe will look like NASA has told us, and that the 3-D Earth is very real and very solid, she will see exactly what NASA has told her. So, she starts nano-traveling through the Universe, just to notice that there is not much life in it—most of it is barren planets, stars, and galaxies.

Where did Jill actually go?

Well, even though she did exit through the Grid, she took the entire Patrix system with her, so she is STILL living in the 4% Universe. She didn't go anywhere—she just brought everything with her because that's where her mind was focused. Do you see now why it's so important to study the metaphysical realm—within the Patrix or not—to understand how things work and how to operate once you leave your physical body for good.

We have stressed that we MUST ignore anything and everything we encounter in the astral after we've died—regardless of what it is. Focus only on one thing: GO THROUGH THE GRID! We can't repeat this too many times.

Let's say that you die with the intention to exit, but you notice there are other souls around who create wonderful, beautiful worlds and environments and seem to absolutely enjoy themselves. You think, "Wow, I'm ALREADY in the KHAA, and I didn't even need to go through the Grid!" And you notice that you can do these things, too. But you didn't go through the Grid, so you are still in the Patrix, just like these other creator gods (humans) you see around you, creating all these things. And then, you have deceived yourself.

What we're getting at here is that if you stay in the astral, thinking it is the KHAA, sooner or later, someone will come to tell you that it's time to "move on." They might trick you into a new incarnation, or if they consider you advanced enough, you might "ascend." Still, En.ki will make sure you do the tasks assigned to the level of ascension. You are not free, and when you've ascended all the way, you become his ascended soldier. This is just ONE example of what can happen if we don't just go through the Grid without distracting ourselves.

When we exit through the Grid, we need to put all our beliefs, expectations, and preconceptions aside and be open for whatever we'll experience. Like my anonymous source said, and I paraphrase, "When you are back in the KHAA, you'll experience what you are ready to experience." We are HIGHLY creative, and we need to be very aware of our thoughts—now and in the KHAA. For example, if someone exits and thinks that the Queen is a blood-thirsty scaly reptilian, that's what this person will experience, because they are creating this exact thought-form, instead of being willing to become an observer first to see what evolves. Strong feelings and emotions create strong thought-forms.

The KHAA is nothing like we think it is. There are certain things I've been told by my anonymous source during our discussions, and these things Ariel and I are sharing with you to the best of our ability, but the rest is for us to explore once we have left this Patrix. So, in order to experience as much as possible, we need to be willing to let go of attachments. This is also why it could be counter-productive to just terminate the Experiment and let all souls free in the KHAA—they will bring the Patrix with them.

So, learn as much as you can about how this Construct is set up in 3-D and more importantly, in the non-physical densities and dimensions. What does it mean to be a non-physical being without a solid 3-D body with limited perceptions? If you feel ready for it, we advise to start with the books we mentioned in the beginning of this video.

Stay tuned...more to come!
